CSCA 45

A close-up photograph of a nonwoven fabric. The fabric is light-colored with a fine, fibrous texture. A diagonal crease or fold runs from the top-left towards the bottom-right, creating a sharp line that divides the image. The lighting is even, highlighting the subtle variations in the fabric's surface.

A close-up photograph showing two different types of nonwoven fabric meeting at a diagonal seam. The fabric on the left is a smooth, light-colored material, while the fabric on the right is a darker, more textured material with a visible fibrous structure. The seam runs from the top right towards the bottom left.
